

A Bossard Company

Code of Conduct - Business principles and guidelines

We conduct our business with all applicable laws and regulations. Violations of the applicable law are not acceptable. In addition, Ferdinand Gross accepts the International Standard ISO 26000, published in Germany as DIN ISO 26000, as a guide to corporate social responsibility. This applies both to the company management and to each individual employee.

I. Human rights and working conditions

1. Human rights

At Ferdinand Gross, we and our suppliers comply with internationally recognized human rights.

2. Child labour and forced labour

At Ferdinand Gross, we and our suppliers prohibit and refrain from any kind of child labour or forced labour.

3. Discrimination

At Ferdinand Gross, we and our suppliers prohibit any form of discrimination. No employee or business partner may be discriminated because of his or her gender, age, colour, race, nationality, sexual orientation, disabilities or religious conviction. Harassment, bullying or intimidation is prohibited.

4. Management

The management respects the personality and dignity of all employees and acts as a conflict mediator. All employees, especially the management, are aware that they are representing the company towards third parties.

5. Right to continuing education

At Ferdinand Gross, we and our suppliers guarantee our employees the right to continue their education throughout their professional career. In order to ensure this, Ferdinand Gross has established the "FG-Academy" in which employees can take part in training programmes free of charge.

6. Occupational health, safety and environmental protection

At Ferdinand Gross, we and our suppliers comply with all applicable national laws, regulations and standards regarding health, safety and environmental protection. Ferdinand Gross has appointed an environmental protection officer as well as a safety inspector who guarantee the implementation of measures. Employees take part in regular training courses.

7. Working time and remuneration

At Ferdinand Gross, we and our suppliers fully comply with applicable national statute on working time and remuneration.

8. Freedom of association

At Ferdinand Gross, we and our suppliers guarantee our employees the right to peacefully unite.

9. Secondary employment for Ferdinand Gross employees

Employees must not have a secondary employment without approval of Ferdinand Gross.
